

Gale Bailey

- A Durham resident for the past seven years, I have lived in New Hampshire for 38 years, so I am very familiar with the state’s problems as well as those of Durham.
- As a political activist, I have canvassed across Strafford County for numerous Democratic candidates and made my voice heard in Concord.
- If elected, I will focus on these key issues: affordable housing, increased funding for our public schools and programs, gun control for communities including our campuses, affordable child care, and protection of the environment.
- Let’s defeat the extremist Free Staters’ agenda and make New Hampshire a state for everyone, and not just special interests!

Wayne Burton

- (incumbent)* If elected to my sixth term – and fourth on the educational funding committee, I will:
- Seek to save taxpayers money by upshifting school expenses to the State, where the New Hampshire Supreme Court demands they belong
 - Continue to fight attempts to remove UNH’s ability to regulate campus firearms
 - Resist attempts by the Republicans to eliminate special education (A federal judge cited my evidence in her restraining order.)
 - Continue working to preserve open space (I helped gain funding for Wagon Hill’s shoreline restoration project.)
 - Work to assure that the success of UNH’s West Edge project also benefits the Town of Durham

Timothy Horrigan

- (incumbent) I have represented Durham in the New Hampshire House of Representatives for the past 18 years. Over that time, my top legislative priority has been preserving our personal freedoms and our democracy.
- I grew up in Durham and for the past 25 years have lived near the UNH campus and downtown Durham, giving me a clear understanding of life in a college town. I am committed to helping Durham continue to be a vibrant and welcoming community.
- I will work on expanding access to free school meals (both breakfast and lunch) and to work on the issues of disability rights and gun safety.

Paul Rasmussen

- Retired Chemical Engineer, MBA with IT experience
 - 12 years Durham community service on Planning Board and other committees
- All generations should have the opportunities and tools to succeed in their current phase of life.
- Everyone needs shelter, transportation, employment options, and access to healthcare for our society to thrive. Each layer of government needs to know what its responsibilities are so that they all can work properly together to ensure this healthy society.
- My immediate priorities are housing, ensuring the State funds its responsibilities, and providing a robust transportation network.

. . . . HELP TURN THE NH STATE HOUSE BLUE!

Siena Schaier

It's time to bring the next generation of Granite Staters into the House. I'm ready to fight for the issues that matter most for young and old alike: cost of living, healthcare, gun safety, public education, the climate, and reproductive rights.

I grew up in Durham and am now a UNH student. I've spent years organizing with political groups at every level, from town committees to statewide campaigns, and built my education around the study of our political system.

I have the team-building skills, energy, and focus to work with other legislators to move solutions to the State House floor.

Together, we can create a New Hampshire that works for everyone.

Loren Selig

(incumbent) In my third term, I will defend public education; honor personal body autonomy; advocate for smart gun control; strive for better housing and child care options; and champion marginalized voices.

In addition to serving on both the Education Policy & Administration and the Criminal Justice & Public Safety Committees, I have successfully sponsored bipartisan bills and worked hard to block harmful bills. In committee hearings, I ask tough questions and seek clear answers.

Together, let's make New Hampshire the best place to live for all of us.

Micah Warnock

For years, New Hampshire's state legislature has cut state taxes without a sustainable plan to fund public education and critical infrastructure. Instead, those responsibilities have been shifted to local governments and property taxpayers, placing more of the burden on families while reducing the shared responsibility of businesses to help fund the services and infrastructure they rely on.

In my 25 years in local government and ten years on Durham's ZBA, I have seen how these decisions can hurt our communities.

- My priorities:
- Fully fund public education
 - Critical infrastructure investment
 - Fiscal responsibility
 - Promote tax equity and shared investment

IN ADDITION . . .

We share a State Rep with Madbury, Lee, and Dover Ward 4 – AL HOWLAND, who doesn't face a primary this term and thus is not included on this flyer. Vote for him on November 3.

HEADS UP: NH STATE ELECTIONS NOVEMBER 3

This November, the entire NH state government is on the ballot — Governor, Executive Council, State Senate, and State House — plus an open U.S. Senate seat and both U.S. House races. Voting for ALL Democratic positions is how we turn NH blue and restore competent government to New Hampshire.
